

press release: 50 years of Salmoiraghi

On October 16, Salmoiraghi SpA celebrated the 50th company anniversary.

This important event took place in the Monza headquarters in the presence of over 200 guests. Sandro Salmoiraghi, the company President, retraced the history of the company, which specialises in automated handling systems for the man-made fibre industry.

During the event, Salmoiraghi presented a beautifully produced book published on this occasion, illustrating the company story and evolution, and also highlighting the design and manufacturing capabilities.

Currently, over 150 Salmoiraghi automation systems are in operation around the clock worldwide, daily handling more than 1.500.000 man-made yarn bobbins, ensuring high product quality and important cost savings.

These successes were achieved through diligent work, continuous technical innovation and utmost attention to Clients' requirements, allowing the company to consolidate its market position in highly competitive conditions, and during difficult economic trends.

Notwithstanding many other applications in various industrial fields, automated handling of man-made fibre bobbins constitutes the core business of the company, which is the world market leader in this important sector.

For Salmoiraghi – a company made of People and Machines – this is a significant moment for recalling the past half century, and also looking at the future goals.
